CONGRATULATIONS TO OUR GRADUATES

One reason I am honored to serve as Chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is our university's dedication to public service and engagement. Public service is part of Carolina's DNA, and the students who participate in the Buckley Public Service Scholars program exemplify this throughout their time here.

I am inspired by and privileged to serve in support of our students as they work to better our local, national and global communities, continuing the legacy. This dedication of our students, along with faculty and staff, makes Carolina a wonderful place to learn in partnership with the communities we serve. Together we are having an impact that can help change the world.

As we celebrate the Buckley Public Service Scholars class of 2015 and all they have accomplished, we are confident that they have not only continued the tradition of service here at Carolina, but that they will carry it with them to continue making a difference throughout their lives.

Congratulations.

Carol L. Folt

Chancellor, The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Each May we celebrate a new class of Carolina graduates, and, for a very special group of students, we also celebrate their commitment to service and graduation as Buckley Public Service Scholars. These are students who have dedicated themselves to expanding and enhancing their public service experience while at Carolina. They do so for a variety of reasons, and many of them shared those reasons in this year's I Serve campaign.

The I Serve campaign was developed to honor the 15th anniversary of the Carolina Center for Public Service and the 25th anniversary of the APPLS Service-Learning program. Between August 2014 and February 2015, students, faculty, staff and alumni shared why they serve, documenting the breadth, depth and importance of service here at Carolina. Many of this year's Buckley Public Service Scholar graduates took part in the formal campaign, but more importantly, they ALL personified what public service means to this institution and to the communities they connected with throughout North Carolina and around the world.

These outstanding students demonstrated their commitment to others and gained experience in untold ways, but they would be the first to share that there have been countless others who contributed to their learning – Carolina faculty and staff members, dedicated community agency personnel and, perhaps most importantly, those they have had the honor to serve.

With this bulletin, I hope you will enjoy learning more about their accomplishments and agree that the 2015 Class of Buckley Public Service Scholars continues to fulfill the promise of the nation's first public university.

Lynn W. Blanchard

Director, Carolina Center for Public Service

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

The Buckley Public Service Scholars program (BPSS) provides a framework for Carolina undergraduate students committed to making a positive impact through service. BPSS challenges participants to expand their understanding of service, connect academic and community-based experiences and build their capacity to help effect change. While completing the program components, participants build portfolios that reflect their learning and unique experiences throughout North Carolina, the nation and the world.

Since 2003, BPSS has connected students with similar interests and provided special opportunities for leadership development and community engagement. This year, participating students reported service with more than 1,000 community and campus organizations. In 2011, the Center announced the establishment of the Walter White Buckley Jr. Endowment. This endowment honors Walter Buckley, a business entrepreneur who applied his professional expertise and personal commitment to making a difference in the lives of others and who exemplifies the qualities the program instills in Carolina students. The Walter White Buckley Jr. Endowment ensures Buckley Public Service Scholars will graduate for generations to come.

PROGRAM COMPONENTS

The Buckley Public Service Scholars program model incorporates a substantial commitment to public service and also several forms of structured training and reflection on that service. While in the program, many students are introduced to social entrepreneurship, community-based research, advocacy and philanthropy as important forms of public service. Special opportunities available to BPSS participants include: Arts in Public Service Fellows, First-Year Service Corps, SMART Mentoring, Philanthropy as a Tool for Social Change course and North Carolina Outward Bound School scholarships.

BPSS is open to all full-time undergraduate students with at least four semesters remaining at Carolina. Transfer students must have three semesters remaining to enroll. To successfully complete the program, students build a portfolio that includes the following program components:

- » A BPSS orientation session,
- » 300 hours of public service,
- » One service-learning course,
- » Four approved skills trainings,
- » A senior reflection activity, and
- » Minimum cumulative GPA.

ARTS IN PUBLIC SERVICE Fellows

In 2014, the Buckley Public Service Scholars program and Carolina Performing Arts (CPA) partnered to create the Arts in Public Service Fellows, an initiative that encourages students to make a direct impact in their community through the arts.

CAROLINA
PERFORMING ARTS
CREATE | PRESENT | CONNECT

North Carolina has a proud history of the arts bringing individuals together and inspiring social change. This program is an opportunity to continue and broaden this tradition by teaching students about the history of the arts as instruments of public service, researching how art is being used in our communities today and encouraging students to connect with the community and make positive contributions to the lives of North Carolinians through the arts.

Arts in Public Service Fellows fulfill the requirements of the BPSS program but with a particular focus on the arts as instruments of social change. Fellows complete a service-learning course, AMST 398 Service-Learning in America: the Arts and Social Change, taught by CPA's Mellon post-doctoral fellow, Aaron Shackleford, that connects students with an arts-based project in the community in addition to providing a rigorous history of the arts and social change in American culture. Fellows have the opportunity to work with established arts-based projects and also to propose and create new arts-oriented engagement opportunities.

FIRST GRADUATE

Aditi Borde, a chemistry major, is the first student to graduate from the Arts in Public Service Fellows program. Through her work with the AMST 398 service-learning course, Aditi worked with the Art Therapy Institute, an organization of mental health professionals dedicated to the healing power of the arts. Borde also led the first Arts in Public Service Fellows APPLES alternative break in Asheville and served as a volunteer with Cary's celebration of Diwali, a widely celebrated Hindu holiday known as the Festival of Lights.

“My experience in the Arts in Public Service Fellowship Program allowed me to view the community through an artistic lens. I experienced how art is used in communities to foster relationships, build on opportunities and engage social change. The art haven in Asheville, North Carolina taught me how the arts can bring a community together to create sustainable relationships.”

133,500
HOURS OF SERVICE

GRADUATES BY THE NUMBERS

The 312 students graduating in the 2015 class of Buckley Public Service Scholars reported more than 133,500 hours across three dimensions of service as of April 2015. Of these hours, 73 percent primarily benefited North Carolina, 13 percent other states and 14 percent other countries.

BPSS participants represent 47 of UNC's 69 majors – 68 percent of all majors on campus. Participants focus on a large variety of service areas, from health to the environment.

“The hours I have volunteered as part of the Buckley Public Service Scholars program have expanded my views on the Chapel Hill surrounding communities while fostering my own passion for social justice. “My experience in the Buckley Public Service Scholars program has reminded me of my connection to the Chapel Hill community in addition to the UNC community. It encouraged me to push my way out of the ‘university bubble,’ using service to form long-term relationships with members of the Chapel Hill community. I have learned not only to seek out meaningful, sustainable ways to serve, but also to reflect on my service in a thoughtful, conscientious way.”

“The Buckley Public Service Scholars program taught me a number of different lessons, but most importantly, it showed me the poverty that lurked in my own backyard. Often eager and ambitious UNC students travel far and wide to help those in need -- and there is nothing wrong with that. But BPSS showed me that I could stay in North Carolina and still make a difference, too.”

“ From the family who did not have a home in Thailand to the thousands of individuals trying to survive homelessness in Washington D.C., the BPSS program has exposed me to real life situations that have helped shape my future dreams and aspirations. The BPSS program bridged the gap between Carolina students and the rest of humanity, better equipping us to continue serving others. This is something I will be eternally grateful for and carry with me for the rest of my life.”
